ETHIOPIANS ON THE MARCH

Here and There

Editorial By Alex. H. WASHBURN

WALTER WILLIAMS, who founded the first newspaper school in the world, in 1908 at the University of Missouri, died Monday night at the ripe old age of 71. He appeared at an all-important moment in the history of newspapers—when they had severed connections with political parties, had dropped the old-time literary tradition, and with the aid of modern advertising were embarking on an independent career.

Nazis Forced to

Frighten Hitler and
His Aides

REVERSE POSITION

Jews to Be Admitted to Army—Ending Religious Persecution

BERLIN, Germany.—(AP)—Nazi leaders Monday called off their drive on "state enemies," it was learned. A high source said that suppression of Jews and Catholics was ordered "soft-pedaled" because of repercussions of the Nazi drive in foreign lands.

The decision was reached after a hurried council at the mountain retreat of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler at Obersalzberg. In attendance, it was said, were Gen. Werner von Blomberg, Goering, head of the Secret Police, and other Nazi leaders.

Impressed with the political expediency of halting Publisher Julius Streicher's Jewish slanders, leaders of the week-end conference considered whether to call a national plebiscite to show confidence in the Nazi regime.

The leaders were told of imminent reactions abroad to moves against Jews, Catholics and the Steel Helmets. They then decided on a change whereby Jews will be considered for military enlistment if they have only two Jewish grandparents—a proposal seen as the first breach in the non-Aryan warfare.

Police to Act.
A national police campaign was planned against individual acts of terrorism which made it plain that further pressure against Jews, Bolshevism and other "reactionaries" will be in the state's hands.

Special attention was reported to have been paid to reactions in England, with whom Germany seeks to cultivate a good friendship. The episodes in New York—the riot on the liner Bremen and Mayor LaGuardia's denial of a license to a German massacre—also were discussed.

It was reported that Prinz Seidler vainly sought an interview regarding the action against the Steel Helmets, which he heads.

Further evidence that the battles are abating is noticed in the removal of "don't buy from Jews" stickers from Jewish shops.

Joachim von Ribbentrop, ambassador extraordinary, and Hjalmar Schacht, head of the Reichsbank, are said to have warned Hitler of the unfriendly reception of war veterans abroad of the Nazi fight, especially suspension of the Steel Helmets.

Cognizance also was taken of the possible effect of the state's policies on the 1936 Olympic games, on which Germany was banking strongly as an agency of favorable propaganda as well as a successful financial event.

The plebiscite, if held, probably would be much like previous demonstrations. The populace, after a fanfare of propaganda, would be asked to vote its confidence on the administration's recent actions despite "all the attacks by enemies abroad."

TO RUSH PASSAGE

House Enactment Forecast
by Committeeman Saturday or Monday

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The new 275-million-dollars tax bill was formally approved Tuesday by the house ways and means committee.

Chairman Doughton hoped to get the measure on the floor Wednesday, but said if he failed then it would be taken up "Thursday at the latest."

Doughton added that he hoped to get it passed by Saturday, but if not then, certainly it could be gotten through by Monday.

The bill includes recommendations outlined by President Roosevelt in his message to congress advocating "wider distribution of wealth."

The house passed Tuesday and sent to the senate the Wilson setback levee bill which provides government compensation to landowners for flowage rights over land subject to inundation by moving back the levees to widen the Mississippi river.

The vote was announced as 216 to 119. The bill is an amendment to the flood control act of 1928 in Arkansas, Missouri, Kentucky, Louisiana and Mississippi.

The cost of flowage rights is estimated at 4 million dollars, which is to come from the regular flood control appropriation.

President Roosevelt Tuesday allotted $3,450,000 of relief funds to the Public Health Service for a survey of chronic diseases.

Trucks Among Items
Purchased

LITTLE ROCK.—The State Highway Commission, meeting Monday awarded contracts for a large quantity of motor equipment, including 14 motor maintenance patrols, 61 ton-and-a-half trucks, 16 passenger cars, 15 dump trucks, eight light pick-up trucks, three motor-propelled rock crushers, and three heavy trucks.

Total cost of the equipment approximately $123,000.

Contracts were awarded the following companies for two motor maintenance patrols each: Arkansas Tractor and Equipment Company, Kern-Limberick Company and Lyons Machinery Company, all of Little Rock; H. H. Johns Supply Company, Stuttgart; Memphis Tractor Company, Memphis; Service Equipment Company, Dallas; and J. D. Adams Company, Indianapolis.

33 Heat Deaths in

Scourged by Scorching
Temperatures

By the Associated Press.
The Central States death toll in the current heat scourge reached 3 Monday.

The North Central states were slightly cooler than in last few days, but the Southwest and Far West suffered under scorching maximums.

Cooler weather moved into Montana, Minnesota and Wisconsin, but the mercury reached 100 degrees or above in South Dakota, Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri.

San Francisco had its hottest July 29 of record with a temperature of 82. A cooling ocean breeze brought relief, however.

That is why official Washington is more than ordinarily absorbed in a government publication which has just appeared and which has circulated but sparingly. It is called "Naval Documents Related to the Quasi-War Between the United States and France, 1793-1800."

STORY OF REVOLT

Hunt's Article Tomorrow
Will Describe the Dyess
Farm Colony

Intimate and enlightening talks with the sharecroppers feature this eighth article in the series of twelve which Frazier Hunt, noted author and journalist, has written for NEA. Hunt has traveled the length and breadth of the land, "Listening to America" and impartially reporting what he has heard.

By FRAZIER HUNT
(Copyright, 1935, NEA Service, Inc.)

They were "chopping" cotton in the brown and black fields when I drove through Poinsett county, seat of the sharecroppers war in eastern Arkansas. "Chopping" is a local word for hoeing out the unneeded cotton plants.

Groups of white and colored cotton workers, men, women and children, march across the rich fields, each on his own row. In some strange way they reminded me of Chinese coolies working in the fields of soy beans.

Frazier Hunt along the South Manchuria railroad in what is now Japanese-controlled Manchukuo. Only there in distant North China there happened to be no children in the fields. Here in our own mid-southland no one was bothering to protest against child labor.

Scattered over the landscape were unpainted one and two-room shacks. Many of them had no outbuildings of any kind. They were hovels where human beings could eat and sleep. It would be a little unfair to the precious word to call them homes.

Home Life
I stopped my car in front of one of these shacks, and walked up to the tiny porch. It was noon and the white worker and his wife and three children had just come in from the fields for their dinner of salt port, corn bread and molasses. Bad food, unsanitary homes, climate, ignorance, disease and hopelessness had told on their faces and bodies. They seemed to belong to another land than the America I knew and loved.

At first they were suspicious of me and my questions. I might easily be a spy trying to find out for the landlord if they had any connection with the Southern Tenant Farmers' Union. Gradually I got the man to open up.

The plantation owner, he explained, furnished his house, the ten acres of land he planted, the shed, mule and plow. He must put in the crop, cultivate it and pick the cotton. He receives a half of the return. He must "furnish" him with food supplies until the grand settlement at the end of the season. He buys at the company store and the landlord keeps the books.

"Cotton's been so low until last year that a man was lucky if he got a little."

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Total expenditures of the Associated Gas & Electric System in opposing the utility holding company bill were estimated Tuesday to be $791,000—including a fee of $25,000 to the law firm of Patrick Hurley, Secretary of war in the Hoover administration.

Four others were presented to the senate lobby committee.

Meanwhile, the senate committee threatened to arm every United States marshal and federal agent with subpoenas for H. C. Hopson, dominant figure in the Associated Gas & Electric System, who disappeared nearly two weeks ago.

tured Deep Into Lake

HOT SPRINGS, Ark.—(AP)—A coroner's jury exonerated William Miller, cigar store proprietor, Monday of criminal negligence in the death of Arthur Wright, 27, who was fatally injured when struck by a motorboat Sunday night on Lake Hamilton.

Wright's 18-year-old wife received a crushed foot in the crash. Her condition was not believed serious at a Hot Springs hospital.

Four other members of the swimming party escaped injury when they heeded the warning of Edgar Wright, brother of Arthur, of the boat's approach.

Miller said that he did not know that he had struck the swimmers until he heard their screams.

Wright, an employee of a Hot Springs dairy firm, was slashed to death by the boat's propeller. He and other members of the party were swimming beneath a bridge pier outside the roped-in enclosure at Gilliam's landing.

Republicans Look

Government," Their Battle-Cry

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Signs of Republican activity looking to 1936 multiplied Tuesday as one prominent party member declared there can be "no compromise with the New Deal" and another accused it of seeking to "pervert or subvert the constitution."

Calling on Republicans to nominate an "outstanding conservative" from the Middle West for president, Senator Hastings, Delaware Republican, declared that the only way the Republican party can save itself is to stick to well-known American principles.

Socialism Issue"

LITTLE ROCK.—Representative Hamilton Fish Jr., of New York, frequently mentioned as a possibility for the Republican presidential nomination in 1936, will visit Little Rock September 13, addressing a statewide mass meeting from the city park bandshell. It was announced Monday by Osro Cobb, chairman of the Arkansas Republican Central Committee.

Representative Fish, former all-American football player, World war veteran and foe of Communism, will leave Washington Thursday on a speaking tour that will take him to Oregon. He will visit Little Rock on his return journey.

A dinner in honor of the congressman, who represents President Roosevelt's home district in the House of Representatives, will be held in the Hotel Marion before the mass meeting. Approximately 25 Arkansas business leaders and bankers will be guests.

Preceding Mr. Fish's speech there will be a 30-minute band concert. Wallace Townsend Arkansas Republican national committeeman, will introduce Representative Fish.

"The Republican party is going to send its heavy artillery into the South during the next campaign, believing that many Jeffersonian Democrats are out of sympathy with the Socialistic ideas of the New Deal," said Chairman Cobb, who has just returned from a conference with Republican leaders in Washington. "The 1936 slogan will be Americanism vs. Socialism and the issues of the campaign will transcend party lines."

HAMBURG, Ark.—(AP)—Sheriff John Riley said Tuesday that he was holding W. W. Ward, 55, in connection with the fatal stabbing of his son-in-law, John McKee, 24, farmer living near Boydel.

Riley said the affair occurred late Monday when the two men met near their homes.

Fulton Underpass
Proposed by StateWPA May Eliminate Dangerous Grade Crossing
on Highway 55

LITTLE ROCK.—A tentative list of 28 projects which would eliminate 36 grade crossings on six railroads in Arkansas was submitted to a group of railroad engineers by the State Highway Department at a conference at the capitol Monday.

The highway commission accepted it, subject to approval by the state WPA director, the state NBC and re-employment directors and the district office of the United States Bureau of Public Roads at Fort Worth.

Preliminary work can be started on any given project after it is approved by these agencies without waiting for final and formal approval by the Washington offices of the Bureau of Public Roads and WPA, it was said following the meeting.

The projects will cost approximately $2,140,000, leaving approximately $1,450,000 of the $3,590,000 allotted to Arkansas for grade crossing elimination to be spent on projects to be selected later.

Among the listed projects is an underpass and approach on highway No. 55 at Fulton, to cost $50,000.

At the present time, No. 55 (Fulton to McNab) has a dangerous grade crossing over the high Missouri Pacific river and it is proposed to convert this into a modern underpass for highway vehicles.

Legal Liquor in Tennessee Beaten

Move to Attach It to Old Age Pension Bill Is Defeated

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—By a vote of 49 to 41, the Tennessee house Monday tabled a liquor legalization rider to an old age pension bill.

The vote came after almost two hours of oratory, during which Speaker Walter M. Haynes urged repeal of the dry laws so as to "bring liquor from the cesspools of crime and regulate it and place it in the open sunlight of day where it can be honestly and properly regulated," and dry leaders had quoted the Bible in opposition to the rider.

"If the Devil has been tempting you to vote for this liquor amendment by promising relief from all your troubles, remember it's the same old lie the Devil told the Savior on the mountain top," said L. N. Humphreys of Washington county.

The old age pension bill proposes taxes on cosmetics, amusements and soft drinks. The house wet bloc offered a liquor legalization amendment, which they estimated would raise $3,500,000 a year toward financing pensions.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia.—(AP)—Authoritative Ethiopian sources said Tuesday that they had received confirmation of reports of reports of a revolt of a number of native Somalis in Italian Somaliland.

Ethiopian troops, 10,000 strong and modern equipment, marched away from the capital under the command of former Cabinet Minister Haptmikael.

Strict military secrecy surrounded the troops movements.

A party of Italians meanwhile departed from Addis Ababa.

The 10,000 troops under the command of Haptmikael, former cabinet minister, marched from their quarters to Kamu.

Women Volunteering
The wife of the commander, one of the highest of the nobility as the grand-daughter of Ras Tessamaia, late regent of Ethiopia during Emperor Menelik's illness, demanded arms and volunteered to join the army and fight in her nation's defense. Authoritative sources expressed the belief the emperor was seriously considering her request.

Another woman, speaking in the public square, declared to the patriotic throng:

"The Italians accuse us of being savages, which is a fact. If savages we are the savages of a family of lions."

Armenians Also Volunteer
Following the passing of the troops, volunteers filled the streets engaging in military activities. Forty-seven Ethiopian-born Armenians called on Haile Selassie to offer themselves as soldiers of his army. The emperor promised to call them when necessary.

The soldiers of the emperor wore khaki uniforms and were equipped with new rifles, machine guns and artillery. They marched with spirit.

Government officials in general denied any knowledge of a clash at Waluk, reported in the London press.

An imperial decree establishing an Ethiopian Red Cross was another item of military preparations. It was formed Sunday at a meeting of patriotic women.

Irritation of a Mole May Cause Cancer

An expert, who has examined the bodies of thousands of persons after death, estimates that there are six moles to each human being.

There are probably few, if any, people who carry no moles on their bodies from birth throughout life. The chances that a mole will become a cancer and cause death are, therefore,
many thousands to one.

However, there are cases on record
in which moles have suddenly developed malignant characteristics, have begun to grow rapidly and acted like cancers to such an extent that they destroyed life when they received chronic irritation.

For example, a mole on the neck
may be rubbed repeatedly by a collar; a mole near the waist in women
may be constantly irritated by a girdle;
moles on the inner side of the thigh or on the rectum may be irritated by the usual physiological requirements of human beings.

Therefore, a mole in such a location
should be guarded and examined occasional to see whether it is suffering from irritation.

The signs which indicate that a mole
may be likely to cause trouble are bleeding, increase in size, sudden increase of prominence above the surface of the skin, and enlargement of glands in the vicinity of the mole. Of course, bleeding from any portion of the body is a dangerous sign and should be investigated as to its cause.

If a mole is situated in any part of the body where it is likely to be irritated, and if it shows the slightest signs of irritation, it is not well to "let it slide" or to treat it by ineffective methods.

Removal of a mole is a very simple matter. The surgeon may cut it out under a local anesthetic, taking away all the tissue down to the fat under the skin, and making certain by examination under a microscope after the mole has been removed that it does not have the characteristics of cancer.

Many people who try to treat themselves when they discover irritation or bleeding in a mole, will apply a caustic of some sort or an irritating antiseptic, with the result that the mole is stimulated to growth instead of being brought under control.

A BOOK A DAY

Saved Shakespeare's Plays for Posterity.

So completely is Shakespeare accepted as the greatest figure in all English literature that it is almost impossible to realize the preservation of his complete works is largely the result of chance.

If a London publisher some three centuries ago had not taken the financial risk of issuing a standard edition of Shakespeare's collected plays, it is very probable that many of them either would have been lost forever or would have come down to us in easily imperfect form.

This publisher was William Jaggard, and his story is told in "A Printer of Shakespeare," by Edwin Elliott Willoughby.

It was in 1621 that associates of Shakespeare conceived the idea of having published a standard edition of his plays. Jaggard agreed to undertake the job—an extraordinary task at that time.

All babies get to the stage when big

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

Regular Removal of Surplus Hair
Is Important.

This is the time of year when the deplatory problem is tremendously important to any woman who prides herself on neatness and fastidious grooming. Dancing in sleeveless evening dresses, bathing in abbreviated bath costumes and playing in shorts outfits call for arms and legs absolutely free from superfluous hair that mar their beauty.

There are three or four ways to remove hair, of course. The amount of time and money you can devote to the process must necessarily influence your choice of a method. But, whichever system you elect, be sure to employ it regularly and carefully as you do any other important beauty routine.

The wax depilatories seem to be the most satisfactory, especially for the legs. It's easier and sometimes a little better to have this done by a professional. However, by following directions carefully, it can be done perfectly at home.

The wax is heated, smeared on in narrow strips, allowed to cool slightly and then pulled off. You smooth it on in the direction in which hair grows and pull it off the opposite way.
Unless you have competent help, better not attempt to use it under arms.

Shaving with a razor probably is the easiest procedure. Just the same, you must make it especially simple to use.
No small hair, growing in a fine line
in the skin, can escape.

Next to using a razor, removing superfluous hair with cream depilatory is the easiest method. You put it on, leave for from three to five minutes,
depending on your type of skin, and wash off with tepid water.

NEXT: Neatness in the cosmetic cabinet.

SUN-TAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JO DARIEN, finishing her first year in college, leaves her father is out of work. Jo has a job and secures part time work in a marine supply store. There she meets venal, handsome DOUG-LAS HATFIELD who offers her the job of hostess at his inn at Crest Lake. Jo accepts. This causes a quarrel with HERB PAUL to whom she is engaged and Jo breaks the engagement.

She goes to Crest Lake. Her duties are pleasant but Harold's eccentric mother takes a dislike to the girl. BABS MONTGOM-ERY, a school acquaintance who is jealous of Jo's popularity, comes to the inn. PETER FRAG-ONET, the actor, and his wife are also guests.

Fragonet takes Jo out to a satellite. There, an accident undermines her. She narrowly escapes drowning.
Next day Fragonet comes to see her. He tells Jo he loves her, takes her to his former rooming place, FRAGONET and MRS. MARSH witness this scene and accuse Jo of encouraging Fragonet's attentions. Mrs. Marsh tells Douglas he must send Jo away but he refuses.

Jo, worried over this affair, is slow to recover her health. THUR-DAY DAVIS, her former rooming comes to the inn. She tells Jo that Bret Paul is the new life guard at Crest Lake.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XX

AS briefly as she could, Jo told Tubby about Peter Fragonet's infatuation. Tubby's eyes grew round with pleased astonishment as the story unfolded, for she was incurably romantic. But this gave way to genuine concern when Jo told of the threat of Edna Fragonet and Mrs. Marsh.

When Jo had finished, Tubby shook her head in wonder. "I never knew you had it in you, Jo!
Of course, you're pretty—but at school you were just a girl who went along contentedly with one man. And now it seems you've three or four all excited, and one of them married. It must be your new clothes!"

Jo laughed wryly. "Well, what ever it is, I wish I'd never found it." She looked at Tubby seriously. "You know, I kept thinking
when Marsh offered me this place
that it was all too good to be true.
I kept thinking that something would have to happen to spoil it."

"Sure," sighed Tubby. "That's life for you—only there are people who appear to just swim along in good luck. I suppose it just seems that they do, and if we really knew them we'd find they have plenty of troubles, too."

"You never get into any trouble, Tubby."

Tubby grinned. "That's because I'm fat. Not heavy or statuesque or well rounded—but just plain fat.
It has its compensations, Jo, but it's not terribly exciting." She paused a moment, wrinkling her forehead. "Do you really think Edna Fragonet will make trouble?"

"She said she would, and if you could have seen her face you'd have believed her."

Tubby stood up. "I think I'll have a talk with her."

"Oh, Tubby, you mustn't! You must make it worse."

Jo's roommate shook her head and said, "A woman will trust another woman if the other woman is as fat
as I am. Don't you worry, I think I can convince her that you're not a husband-stealer by profession."

"Well," said Jo resignedly,
"whatever you do, don't lose your temper." Then she added, smiling,
"Tubby, you're a darling!"

"I'm probably just a sap for getting mixed up in this," Tubby told her, "but if there's one thing I'd let you sit up for an hour or so tomorrow."

She helped Jo to the bed and smoothed down the covers around her. "I like your friend, Miss Davis," the nurse said. "She can come to see a patient of mine any time she likes."

Jo agreed, and soon, thinking of Bret Paul, she dropped off to sleep.

WHEN Jo awakened it was almost dark outside, and Miss Conley sat reading by a shaded lamp. As Jo stirred, the nurse put down her book and came to the bedside.

"You had a good long sleep. Hungry?"

Jo nodded. "Very hungry . . .
and I feel like a new woman."

"You're coming along," Miss Conley said. "Miss Davis was up to see you again."

"That's odd. She wasn't planning to come again until tomorrow."

"Apparently she had something important to tell you. I told her to come back after dinner."

Jo was indeed famished, and she enjoyed thoroughly the dinner which Miss Conley brought to her from the inn's kitchen. Nevertheless, she was impatient to know what was the "something important" that Tubby had to tell. Perhaps she had already talked with Mrs. Fragonet, for it would be very much like Tubby to attack the problem at once. Jo could not help but smile at the picture of Tubby talking so earnestly to the frigid wife of the movie star. She knew that her case was in good hands,
for women liked Tubby Davis, and trusted her instinctively.

Tubby appeared almost as soon as Miss Conley had removed Jo's dinner tray. But, if she had good news, her usually pleasant face gave no sign of it.

"Did you see her?" asked Jo impatiently.

Tubby shook her head. "She's gone."

"Gone?"

"She took the afternoon train to Los Angeles—and without her husband."

Jo's heart sank. "Did you—have you heard anything? I mean about what her plans are?"

"The rumors are rattling
it off that she's left Fragonet permanently," Tubby said.

"Do they know why?" asked Jo.
"I don't think so. . . . But the chances are pretty good that they will."

They were silent for a long moment. Tubby patted Jo's shoulder.
"I wish I could have just had a dozen words with her, Jo. . . .
But don't let it get you down. I think maybe she'll just go down to Hollywood and think the thing over, at least for a while. Meanwhile, maybe Fragonet will get thereby letting you out."

But just then Miss Conley entered with a small square envelope in the stationery of the inn. Jo took one look at the bold, distinguished handwriting, had tore open the flap with trembling fingers.
Nervously her eyes took in the brief note, then she handed it to Tubby without a word. It was from Fragonet, and Tubby read:
"Edna and I are separating. I want you to return to Hollywood with me, and we will be married there the moment it's legally possible."

'Rail Bullet' Halted by Mishap

In one of the first accidents ever to befall a modern streamlined train, two cars of the "City of Portland," which makes the Chicago-Portland, Ore., run, longest in the nation, are shown above, twisted off the rails in a Wyoming canyon. After being derailed, the cars sped over the ties for a quarter mile. No one was injured.

If great ambitions dominate your mind,
Just watch yourself and see you do not shrink

WITH THE LADIES

Thank you, Doctor Horney, for the information.
Now that you have told us, in scientific manner, that love and the emotional side of our natures are overrated, maybe there will be a gay and independent change in women.

It's foolish, perhaps, the way most of us let our interests become intertwined with those of a special man; the way we can't concentrate on our work or our food or our health unless the world is right with him. But most of us didn't know there was a escape! We supposed, that being women, we would love men, and grieve when they grieved, and rejoice when they rejoiced, and always find our supreme happiness in our relationship with them.

Love, Doctor Horney, as every woman and man, too, for that matter, knows, has its high moments and its bad moments. To be utterly free from both might be monotonous, but at least it would relieve the general humidity, these mid-summer days, if we could think of love as a book, to be read when we pleased and closed when there was work to be done.

Need Help in New Era
Only being women, trained for centuries in a school where custom and usage have made us emotionally dependent, we may need some assistance in this new independent mood, which puts women's careers on a parity with love.

Dr. Karen Horney, New York psychiatrist, told thousands at the convention of Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, that women are afraid to take their rightful place in the economic side of their lives. Dr. Horney is quite right in stating the reason that women are retarded. As to whether or not women will ever be able to overcome this attitude is a far different matter.

After all, why should we? If a woman wants a career, or a certain business success more than anything else in the world, then that desire has solved the emotional problem for her. Usually, though, such a desire comes as part of a sublimation.

After all, the roots of the human race go deeply into the emotional soil of women's lives. To most of us, it is still of vital importance to know that a man's key will turn in the apartment door, or his step will sound on the veranda at 6 o'clock each night. Most of us find Johnnie's grades in arithmetic pretty important, and take regular delight in preparing the pies or puddings that those whom we love like best.

Disjuncting Career Is Difficult
Foolish? Perhaps. A waste of time? It all depends on what you want to do with your time, on what you want from life.

The ideal arrangement, of course, is to combine a career in which a woman functions as an interesting, sympathetic, necessary personality with the role of home-maker in which she becomes part of a unit of people who love.

"Overrating of love frequently degrades other pursuits outside this sphere to something of secondary importance," Dr. Horney continues.

It is true that man's work is his life, and his love is a thing apart—on the one hand important because of it. It would be splendid if the same situation could figure in women's lives. No woman wants to repeat the role of Sweet Alice who wept with delight when Ben Bolt went around beaming, and trembled in fear at his frown. We want to be free, happy, individuals.

Apparently, since we can if we know how, the thing to do is to reorganize contemporary society. In the position in which most women are placed there is no escape from the emotional bondage. Still, if the door were opened, it's a pretty fair guess that not many women would want to go places, anyway.

Maybe Doctor Horney will give us some rules. Plenty of women would be glad to try them.

J.C. Penney Co. to Reopen Wednesday in New Store at 112 East Second Street

5,000 Square Feet of Floor Space in Its New Quarters

A. E. Stonequist, Store Manager, to Hold Gala Opening Wednesday

PENNEY'S HISTORY

1,500 Stores Did 212 Million Dollars' Business Last Year

The J. C. Penney company will open the doors of its new home at 112 East Second street Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock.

The large crowds of shoppers expected to attend the opening celebration will find a modern, efficient store that has been planned to serve the public with the greatest possible ease and convenience.

The new larger quarters will devote nearly 5,000 square feet to the sale and display of merchandise. The various departments are conveniently located and well arranged.

The Penney staff has been kept busy for days unpacking and arranging the huge stock of new merchandise ordered for the reopening event, the store has been fully decorated, and according to A. E. Stonequist, the manager, Penney's is all set for a gala celebration.

Mr. Stonequist has been associated with the Penney company for the past nine years and has managed the Hope store since 1931. He is thoroughly familiar with the wants and buying habits of the people of this section, and the steady increase in volume of business is attributed to his capable guidance.

The Penney company was founded in a tiny store in the mining town of Kemmerer, Wyoming, in 1902, by James C. Penney. The company now operates nearly 1,500 stores whose sales volume last year amounted to more than $212,000,000. Observers of department store operations in this country attribute much of the Penney company's success to its rigid adherence to Mr. Penney's original plan of vesting full merchandising control of each store in the hands of a local manager who is in position to study the wants and needs of the people of his own community. By pooling the wealth of experience and knowledge gained by all store managers, each can keep his customers in touch with popular style trends, new manufacturing processes, wearing quality tests and other things that make for successful department store service.

Then, too, the Penney company has steadfastly refused to be stamped into the recent trend toward store-keeping frills and extravaganzas which add to the overhead of any retail business.

Faithful adherence to this long established principle is one of the chief concerns of Earl C. Sams, president and active head of the entire Penney organization.

Famous Necklace Is Stolen in N. Y.

Robbers Get One-Time Possession of Queen Marie Antoinette

NEW YORK.—(AP)—While thousands of persons passed a Fifth avenue jewelry store late Monday two robbers stripped it of its stock and a ruby necklace once owned by Marie Antoinette.

Police estimated their loot as high as $100,000, exclusive of the necklace which could not be priced. It had been on display in the show window for a week with a card by which the French government certified its authenticity. It contains 25 flat rubies of one to two carats each, a diamond-ruby clasp and filigree work studded with diamonds.

The robbery occurred in the fashionable shopping district on Fifth avenue between Fifty-seventh and Fifty-eighth streets, at about 5 p. m. Only Lester Harman, 27, the store manager, and Joseph Friedman, 22, a nephew of Marjorie Miller, the owner, were in the shop. They were preparing to carry trays of jewels to the safe at the close of the business day when a well-dressed young man entered.

"I want to see Mr. Miller about purchasing a cigarette case," he told Harman.

When the manager looked up it was into the muzzle of a pistol.

Home Clubs

Guernsey

The Guernsey Home Demonstration club met at the home of Mrs. T. E. Logan on July 22. The meeting was called to order by the president Mrs. W. M. Hamsey. Devotional was read by Mrs. Thomas. Roll call was read by the secretary, Mrs. Anderson. Fifteen members and one visitor was present. Mrs. Griffin gave a very interesting demonstration on salad making which was enjoyed by all. After which a very pleasant afternoon was enjoyed, the hostess served delicious refreshments.

There will be no meeting in August, as Miss Griffin will be in camp. The members all agreed to have a picnic at the home of Mrs. Ada Hopkins.

RFC Refunding Bill for Schools Voted

Senator Robinson's Measure Is Approved by Upper Chamber

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The Robinson bill to authorize $10,000,000 in Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan for refunding indebtedness of school districts, cities or states was passed Monday by the senate and sent to the house. Senator Robinson, Democrat, Arkansas, the author, said it was necessary to avoid the closing of schools in some states.

An amendment by Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, that the loans should be allocated to states on the basis of need was adopted.

Long Completes Siege of Orleans

Mayor Walmsley Left Without a Vote in "Old Regulars"

NEW ORLEANS, La.—(AP)—Senator Huey P. Long's conquest of the "Old Regular" ring of New Orleans became complete Monday.

Long's active political opposition in New Orleans simmered down to Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley and one city commissioner, Floyd Earhart. Deputy Commissioner of Public Property James L. Kelly, surrendered at a caucus of "Old Regular" leaders Monday.

Hostility of the mayor and his one loyal commissioner amounts to little because neither has a voice in the party caucus.

Declaring he could "not subscribe to what they are doing," Commissioner Earhart walked out of the caucus, relinquishing his party post as leader of the Twelfth ward. The caucus named Charles Jackson to ward "boss-ship."

Kelly said he had decided to abide by the action of the caucus because he believed in "rule by the majority," but said that he would continue to oppose any action against the mayor or Earhart.

Long has demanded the mayor's resignation before he provides the city with state financial assistance.

Assistant Attorney General George M. Wallace announced that all city officials and employees would remain in their jobs until their status is determined by the State Civil Service Commission.

The Civil Service Commission Monday took over supervision of all municipal employees holding jobs under appointments. This was the result of a law passed at the last special session of Long's legislature.

Britain to Rebuild Her Entire Fleet

To Spend 3/4 Billions for 12 Battleships and 33 Cruisers

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—Great Britain plans to build almost a complete new battle fleet costing $750,000,000 by 1942, the Daily Herald said Monday in an article which it claimed revealed a secret seven-year plan developed by the Admiralty.

Despite a statement in the House of Commons by Commander B. M. Eyres-Monsell, first lord of the Admiralty, declaring that publication of the program would be against the interests of the public and the peace of the world, the newspaper published what it described as "the Admiralty's famous 'hush-hush' plan which has been communicated to the admiralties of the United States, France, Germany, Italy and Japan."

The huge new schedule, the newspaper announced, calls for the construction of 12 new capital ships, and 33 cruisers.

The latter item, it was said, fulfilled the dictum of Admiral Viscount John R. Jellicoe at the Geneva conference of 1927 when he asserted 70 cruisers were "the absolute requirement" for Britain to remain independent, regardless of the strength of other powers.

Fourteen children all girls, were born to Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Watts, of Tabor, N. C., in the course of their married life.

U. S. Will Sponsor Summer Schools

To Aid 1,200 Teachers—Find Jobs for 125,000 College Students

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Federal help for both needful students and teachers was planned Sunday by the Works Progress Administration.

The two-fold program:

1. Harry L. Hopkins decided to set up summer schools for 1,200 teachers who were among those who taught reading and writing to 500,000 illiterates last year.

2. Aubrey Williams, head of the National Youth Administration, said jobs would be provided for 125,000 college students during the coming school year and announced that boy and girl leaders had endorsed his $20,000,000 program.

Dr. L. R. Alderman, who is serving with both the relief and the youth administrations, said 25 summer schools would be held. The sessions will last six weeks and teachers attending will be paid from $15 to 18 a week in work relief wages. They will be trained to teach grammar this fall.

Favorable comment on the youth program which also contemplates putting 65,000 children in camps and supplying apprentice work for others of the 500,000 scheduled for help, was received by Williams from James E. West, chief executive of the Boy Scouts of America, and others.

Owners Frightened

It was too much of a temptation to most of the owners and companies, who through the lean years had borrowed so much money that they were practically bankrupt. Ways of reducing tenants to the status of share-croppers, and croppers to day laborers were found, and troublesome men were put out of their houses—all in direct opposition to the government contracts. In the summer of last year H. L. Mitchell, a dry cleaner, and Clay East, who ran a filling station, and Ward Rodgers, a young and courageous preacher, formed the initial union organization. There was no discrimination between white and colored members. Soon a test case of tenantage was carried to the Arkansas Supreme Court and a verdict given for the plantation owner.

In Folsmet, and adjoining counties bordering the Mississippi and near Memphis, there were probably 300 and more croppers and ex-tenants thrown out of their homes. Those who were known to be union members were ordered off without ceremony. Preacher Rodgers was arrested in Marked Tree and fined $500 and six months in jail for alleged seditious remarks at a union meeting. Organizers, speakers, visitors, newspaper men, were ordered out of town and threatened. All local citizens who sympathized with the share-croppers were ostracized. A virtual reign of terror existed.

Tenants Apparent

There was a dramatic tenseness about this town of Marked Tree even when I visited it weeks after the height of the trouble had passed. Investigators and reporters were definitely undesirable persons here in the office of C. T. Carpenter, Southern born attorney for the Union.

"Don't let anyone around here know that you're a newspaper man or they'll either shut you up like a clam or run you out of town," he told me. "I have to go armed all the time. A mob came to my house to lynch me but I bluffed them off." He was a quiet, unassuming man who looked like the soul of peace.

I asked him for some exact figures regarding tenancy in the south. He read from an official report: In 13 cotton states there were 1,091,944 white families and 698,839 colored families on the land. One-third of the whites were croppers and one-half the colored families. Seventy per cent of all the farms in the south were farmed by tenants. The problems the cotton states faced were worn-out soil, a single cash crop, race prejudice and a tradition of shiftlessness. The tenant and share-cropper system was brought on after the Civil war when the southern owner no longer had his slave labor and little or no money. The average income of the share-cropper is $210 a year, or 57 cents per day. Many of the children get no education whatsoever, and a few more cultural advantages than natives in the center of Africa. More than 300,000 cropper and tenant farmers have been forced off the land by the 3 A's reduction plan.

Underground Union

Then this courageous man who has sacrificed his practice and position to help out the lowly cropper opened up the book of the future. "We must end this vicious system of share-cropping. It is little less than slavery. The one solution is a vast system of small homesteads for these landless workers. The government has the money in hand now to start buying up tracts of Something to eat out of his work," the man went on, glancing up at me out of pale blue eyes that had a beaten look about them. "Things is a little better now—but I don't see how we gained much out of this AAA business. Reckon the company got most of that."

It was this matter of AAA crop reduction and payments that was the real basis for the formation of the Union, with its resultant terrorism, night riding and ejections. According to Sec. 7 of the AAA cotton contracts every fourth row of cotton was to be plowed up in 1932 and in the year following 40 per cent reduction was to be effected. Tenants and croppers were not to be dispossessed but were to have free use of the released lands and free use of their houses. Tenants—who furnished their own supplies and equipment—were to share in the adjustments, and of the one cent per pound parity payment they were to receive half.

My own brief investigation of this desperate problem of the cotton lands fails to exonerate the AAA from some blame in its failure to see that both the spirit and the letter of the cotton adjustment program was carried out. The tenant and the share-cropper were swept over in the greedy rush for easy government money.

land and subdividing them into ten and twenty acre plots for these croppers and tenants. If the Bankhead Bill passed it will put the great project in a farm basis. America must make up her mind now whether she will turn into a land of great holdings with 'slave' workers or become a nation of small, independent farmers who can become useful, intelligent citizens."

Today in Arkansas these tenants and croppers have no vote and no way of protest except through their underground union. The last session of the State Legislature passed a law that gave to only those who have both their 1925 and 1934 poll tax slips to vote. It is a virtual disfranchisement of all tenants. It gives back to the old-time, black-hatted, pistol-toting political boss the power that controlled-voting has for long put into his inefficient and grafting hands.

MOSCOW, Russia—(AP)—Earl Browder, general secretary of the American Communist party, drew prolonged applause Sunday when he told the Seventh Communist International that the party was growing steadily stronger in America and that especially the number of negro communists had increased greatly.

He attributed the frequency of strikes to what he called the growing discontent of the workers there. "Right wing opportunists are being eliminated from the party in the United States," he said. "Followers of Lenin Trotsky (exiled by the Soviet) are being driven from the party."

William Z. Foster, German delegate, fixed as the principal task of the American Communists formulation of a coalition of workers' organizations. This is needed, he pointed out, to create a united workers' party in the United States.

Another German delegate, Comrade Frantz, charged that Nazis "tortured 5,000 workers to death" in Germany.

Soil Conservation Day, 1st of August

State-Wide Celebration Is to Be Held Thursday at Conway

CONWAY, Ark.—Records in the office of Gene Williams, secretary of the Conway Chamber of Commerce, indicate that people from practically every community of the state will hear Dr. Hugh H. Bennett at Conway, August 1.

That day will be observed as "Soil Conservation Day" and exercises here are expected to impress upon the people of Arkansas the importance of soil erosion control and enlighten them on ways and means of protecting their farms through co-operation with SCS.

Beginning July 29 and ending August 1, four-days meeting will be held under the auspices of the State Teachers of Vocational Education. One hundred vocational teachers from 75 counties of the state will take part in the exercises. A program prepared by E. B. Matthews, State Director of Vocational Education, will be rendered. In addition to the address of Dr. Bennett, other distinguished authorities of state and national renown will appear.

Among them will be: Anthony Williams, Washington, Director of Youth Movement; R. D. Maltby, Washington, Regional Agent of the Federal Board for Vocational Education; P. W. Niemeyer, St. Louis, Commissioner of the Farm Credit Administration for Arkansas, Missouri and Illinois; Harvey C. Couch, Pine Bluff, president of Arkansas Power & Light Co.; W. E. Fhipps, State Commissioner of Education; W. R. Dyess, Little Rock, State Director of the Works Progress Administration; E. B. Whitaker, Little Rock, regional director of rural settlement administration; B. M. Gile, Fayetteville, regional director of the Land Policy section of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration; Dan T. Gray, dean of the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture; J. L. Bond, Little Rock, State Supervisor of adult education; Dr. Keith L. Holloway, director of agricultural education, University of Arkansas and R. B. Smith, Little Rock, State Supervisor of Vocational Agriculture.

A feature of "Soil Conservation Day," August 1, will be visitation of farms in SCS demonstration area including farms in counties of Faulkner, White and Cleburne. Groups will be conducted and erosion control work explained.

The New Deal

der the eaves, filled with envelopes marked "Captain's Letters." Interests as he always has been in naval history (he is one of the important private collectors of naval historical documents), he wanted them published so the dogeared, fading letters should not be lost.

A year ago, Congress authorized their publication, and the work was done. One who gets a copy has to pay for it—it's not a congressional franking matter.

The book is just out. It's full of salty details of the outfitting and handling of the ships which made the American navy, and which in FDR's preface "were closely associated with the country's pioneer settlement and expansion, with the winning of its independence, and with its subsequent security in very precarious times."

Significant words, perhaps, of a sailor or president in these precarious times. But down among all the rubble of official correspondence about rat-traps and speaking trumpets, all of which is sprinkled with the salty language of the men who commanded at sea, lies one curious letter, in the collection discovered and sponsored by FDR himself. Chockers all over Washington are chuckling about it.

A. Hamilton's Opinion

To Secretary James McHenry from Alexander Hamilton: "... in so delicate a case ... my opinion is that no doubtful authority ought to be exercised by the president. ... If not, and he is left at the foot of the Constitution, as I understand to be the case, I am not ready to say that he has any other power than merely to employ the ships as convoys with authority to repel force by force (but not to capture) ...

"No doubtful authority ought to be exercised by the president, but as different opinions as to his power have been expressed in the House of Representatives, and no special power has been given by the law, it will be expedient for him, and his duty, and the true policy of the constitution, to come forward by a message to the two houses of Congress declaring that 'so far and no further' he feels himself confident of his authority to go ... having no desire to exceed the constitutional limits ...

"This of course will remove all clouds as to what the president will do—will gain him credit for frankness and an unwillingness to shewance (sic) the Constitution—and will return upon Congress the question in a shape which cannot be eluded."

"Yours truly,

"A. Hamilton."

Did Alexander Hamilton write a platform plank 138 years ago for the Democrats—or for the Republicans?

Deacon Moore's Band at Saenger

Famed Arkansas Music-Master Is Coming Here Wednesday

Exponent of true Southern music, Carl (Deacon) Moore, native Arkansan, is coming to town to display the same musical wares with which he has gained national fame. He and his orchestra will appear on the stage at the Saenger theater Wednesday, matinee and night, and, after the show at the Barlow will provide music for what is expected to be one of the most gala dances held here in recent years.

Born in Jonesboro, Moore is a native of Arkansas, although he has been engaged for many years in some of the brightest night spots in the United States, including large hotels, resorts, night clubs and theaters. His is a unique type of music, and his programs are in themselves complete amusement presentations.

The famous musician derived the non de plume, "Deacon," from his relishing impersonation of a colored minister. That and many other clever impersonations will be included in the local program.

Moore plays every type of music, and many of his most popular numbers are original compositions. The Deacon and Phil Baxter, another famous musician with whom he teamed for several years, wrote the old popular hits, "Ding Dong Daddy," "St. James Infirmary," and "Ride 'Em Cowboy."

The Deacon and Phil Baxter organized their first band at Memphis at the outset of their career. Since then both have skyrocketed to fame. One of Moore's most important engagements was at the Paramount Cafe at Cleveland, Ohio, where he replaced Guy Lombardo. He also played a season on the RKO and Orpheum Vaudeville circuits, not to mention the innumerable dance engagements he has filled in many major universities. His radio experience includes virtually every major station and chain.

With the Deacon's orchestra is Marge Hudson, said to be the most beautiful woman blues and torch singer appearing on nation-wide radio programs. She will sing several numbers on the local program, including those which gained for her the unofficial title of "Radio's Bluebird."

Although composed entirely of white musicians, Moore's band is famous for its ability to mimic the lovable old ballads made famous by the Southern negro.

Dean Williams, of M. U., Dead at 71

Founder of World's First School of Journalism Succumbs

COLUMBIA, Mo.—(AP)—Dr. Walter Williams, 71, former president of the University of Missouri and dean emeritus of the world's first school of journalism here, died at his home Monday night.

Dr. Williams was 15 when he obtained his first newspaper job in the composing room of the Booneville (Mo.) Topic at 75 cents a week. Eight years later he became editor and part owner of the Booneville Advertiser and president of the Missouri Press Association.

He assumed editorial supervision in 1890 of the Columbia (Mo.) Herald. From that time on his activities in newspaper work broadened and he rapidly gained recognition for his efforts to raise the standards of journalism.

From his pen came "the Journalists' Creed," a code of ethics conceived with the idea of guiding journalists, both old and young, and setting forth the high ideals of the profession.

Dr. Williams' services were widely sought, but he continued in newspaper work as his principal activity. He served the University of Missouri several years as chairman of the Executive Committee of the Board of Curriculum. He resigned that place in 1908 to become dean of the School of Journalism at the suggestion of the Missouri Press Association. It was the first separate division in any university organized exclusively for instruction in newspaper work. Dr. Williams worked out a curriculum which has been widely copied.

He was urged several times by the Democratic party to become its candidate for governor of Missouri, but declined.

Dr. Williams was born at Booneville, Mo., July 2, 1864. In June, 1892, he married Miss Hulda Harned of Vermont, Mo. They had two sons and a daughter. Mrs. Williams died in 1918. In October, 1927, the dean married Miss Sara Lawrence, Lockwood, a graduate of the school of journalism and later a member of the faculty.

Sunday with Miss Alta Bruce.

The bridal shower given for Mrs. Charlie Rogers at the home of Mrs. J. L. Willitt July 24, was attended by 28 women.
